September 2009

Dear Sir/Madam

Please find attached details of briefings to be conducted by the Australian Road Transport Industrial Organisation in coming months on amendments to federal workplace relations laws.

These amendments were introduced into parliament by the Rudd Government earlier this year. While some provisions took effect from 1 July 2009, others will come into force from 1 January 2010. They affect all employers in the road freight, private bus and coach industries.

This comprehensive timetable has been approved by the Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations. It is designed to give as many businesses in the transport industry as possible the opportunity to attend one or more of these briefings.

Lawyers with specialist qualifications in industrial relations and a comprehensive understanding of the industry will be responsible for delivering each briefing.

Briefings are free and are open to all employers in these industries, irrespective of organisational affiliation.

I strongly urge you to attend one of these briefings.

Please contact me, telephone 0412 880861, if further assistance is required.

Yours sincerely

Hugh McMaster
