2005

The Federal Government recently released its WorkChoices reforms. However, as with all major legislative reform, the detail will be critical. The Prime Minister has said that the Bill will be available in the week of 31 October.

Our industrial relations and employment team has been closely monitoring the changes and their implications for employers.

To time with the release of the legislation, we are pleased to invite you to a briefing on the key elements of the reform package.

The insights available in our briefing will provide an early opportunity to absorb the WorkChoices reforms and their implications for your organisation.
