IATA/FIATA Advanced Electronic Cargo Information Online Training

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security Bureau of Customs and Borders Protection (CBP) now requires that Advanced Electronic Cargo Information (AECI) be provided for every consignment entering or leaving the U.S.A. For inbound traffic, the information must be submitted 4 hours prior to arrival in the United States or "wheels up" from certain nearby areas.

IATA, with the cooperation of the International Federation of Freight Forwarders Associations (FIATA), has been working actively to interpret and explain the new regulations. The result of this effort is a 30-minute online Web-based training session intended to support the entire industry, including airlines, freight forwarders and shippers.

If you want to make sure you clearly understand these new requirements, take advantage of this training on AECI. It will also provide you with a better comprehension of your responsibilities to meet these requirements.

Do your part to ensure the continued safe and unhindered flow of cargo. Make sure you are prepared, register today!
